National Veterans Memorial and Museum Extends Closure Until Early May

COLUMBUS, Ohio – In accordance with the State of Ohio’s stay-at-home mandate extension, the National Veterans Memorial and Museum will remain closed until early May. The Museum has been closed since March 13, 2020, in line with guidance from the Centers for Disease Control, the Ohio Department of Health and Ohio Governor Mike DeWine. An official reopening day will be confirmed and announced at a later date.

The health and welfare of our visitors, supporters, and team is our number one priority.

Please sign up to receive our enewsletter at NationalVMM.org and check our growing blog and social media channels @NVMM to experience stories of resilience, hope and inspiration.

Thank you for your continued support as we contend with this unprecedented public health crisis.

We look forward to re-opening our doors to the public when it is deemed safe to do so.

About the National Veterans Memorial and Museum

The National Veterans Memorial and Museum takes visitors on a narrative journey telling individual stories and shared experiences of Veterans from all military branches throughout history. The National Veterans Memorial and Museum pays tribute to the sacrifices of men and women in service and their families. History is presented in a dynamic, participatory experience with photos, letters and personal effects, multi-media presentations, and interactive exhibits. Together, these elements link our national story to the larger context of world.
