“The health and safety of our guests and our team continues to be our top priority,” said Lt. General Michael Ferriter, U.S. Army (Retired), president and CEO, National Veterans Memorial and Museum. “Our building is equipped with a medical-grade air filtration system, and a dedicated staff ensuring social distancing along with rigorous disinfecting practices, so we are excited to once again share Veterans’ inspiring stories in person with those who are ready to visit.”

Returning visitors can enjoy We The People: Portraits of Veterans in America by watercolor artist, Mary Whyte, as well as all the inspiring Veteran stories and history experiences available throughout the primary museum exhibits. For those who aren’t ready or can’t travel to the museum at this time, we encourage you to get your We The People Virtual Tour ticket.

Visitors, including Veterans and members, are encouraged to reserve admission tickets in advance online at <https://nationalvmm.org/visit/tickets/>

In-person museum visits were halted on November 20, 2020, after Franklin County reached the COVID-19 Level 4 purple designation.
